Tualatin Valley Distilling moves their aged whiskeys to special order

HILLSBORO, OR – (May 31st, 2015) – Tualatin Valley Distilling, Oregon's smallest legal distillery, today announced the release of its two aged whiskeys, the Oregon Single Malt American Whiskey and Fifty/Fifty American Whiskey, to special order status in the OLCC listings. Retailing at $28.45 in 375ml bottles, the two distinct whiskeys have been putting TVD on the map as contender in building a distinct Pacific Northwest flavor profile.

The Oregon Single Malt American Whiskey (item code: 2805E) proofed at 92 (46% abv) is an approachable scotch style whiskey, similar in profile to the Speyside region Scotches. It is made from 100% malted barley sourced from the Pacific North West and uses local yeasts and water to complete the recipe. It is built entirely on premises in Hillsboro, Oregon, and created in small batches to capture the Oregon made spirit.

"We've focused on creating the whiskey we, as long time scotch drinkers, wanted to drink," Corey Bowers, co-founder and head brewer at TVD says. "Our Oregon Single Malt is designed to be more of an introduction and is approachable in its sweeter caramel and oak forward profile. While available since October 2014 in our tasting room, the positive response we've been getting has encouraged us to make it available to a wider market through the OLCC stores as a special order offering."

The Fifty/Fifty American Whiskey (item code: 2806E), also proofed at 92 (46% abv), is TVD's second offering and presents as a more aggressive profile to compliment the Single Malt. Built from 50% malted barley and 50% rye as the grain bill, the final product maintains some of the sweetness from the barley but is well balanced by spice from the rye grain. More complex and challenging, the Fifty/Fifty appeals to both rye drinkers as well as scotch drinkers.

Like the Oregon Single Malt, the Fifty/Fifty is aged in 5gallon barrels that allow TVD to release high quality mature whiskeys to market more quickly than larger barrels would typically allow. Both whiskies are built from scotch tradition and process, are always twice pot distilled, and is done in their Hillsboro, Oregon facility from grain to glass to ensure the flavor of the Pacific Northwest is maintained.
